In Geography, children are given the opportunity to express themselves in different ways which demonstrates their knowledge and skills in the subject. Each year, the learning builds on from the previous year which allows them to develop their schema of knowledge in the different areas of Geography. All staff who teach Geography provide the children with praise, support and feedback to in order to support the children to reach their full potential in Geography.
Developing a love for learning and a desire to achieve	All children can develop a love for learning and a desire to achieve in Geography, both inside and outside of the classroom. Geography is a subject where pupils can explore and learn about the world around them and also the wider world. In Geography, pupils are free to ask questions as well as research and conduct fieldwork. Children also get the opportunity to work and learn individually and as part of small groups. Geography is also a subject which has links across other subjects across the curriculum (e.g – rocks in Science). This will support pupils with their learning and will help contribute to our pupils developing a love and desire for learning.
